February 2024

Vol. 32, No. 1

Annual Meeting and a Valentine's Day Bonus!

ANNUAL MEETING

Sunday, February 25th – Noon to 3:00pm

Whately Inn

Invitations are in the mail! If you did not receive the mailing, please contact the club. Lilian Jackman of Wilder Hill Gardens will speak to us on caring for our beloved gardens and landscapes during these busy times and as we grow older? Learn sound gardening techniques and a few innovative "tricks." Lilian will illustrate ways to keep our surroundings healthy and beautiful while dramatically reducing the amount of labor involved. We can work smartly with our experience, our bodies and our passion for plants in a way that benefits the whole. Special attention will be given to native, pollinator, and habitat producing plants. Max attendance is 60, so please return your reservation early to avoid disappointment. Deadline is Feb 18. Call Marsha (413-773-0201) or Laura (413-522-0901) with questions.

Shelburne Farm and Garden Visit

Tuesday, February 13 – 5:00-6:00pm

355 Mohawk Tr, Shelburne Falls

Maria Topitzer of Lyonsville Farm in Colrain has recently become co-owner of Shelburne Farm and Garden, and is inviting club members to visit the store on Tuesday, February 13th to check out her stock of Valentine's Day gifts and to use our new 10% discount on her incredible selection of houseplants – or any gardening related supplies. Members can feel free to come earlier than 5:00pm to browse, but Maria will address the club at 5:00pm, and the store will close at 6:00pm. (Email the club about carpooling.) Speaking of Lyonsville Farm, plant pre-orders are now open on their website. A 15% discount will be automatically applied to your order until March 1st. They sell organic herbs, annuals, perennials, and vegetables. Plants can be picked up at the farm.

February President's Musings ~ Laura Schlaikjer

The calendar is turning to the shortest month of the year, and despite this being a leap year, there are still only 29 days this month. As you can see from the pages of this newsletter, there are many events to take advantage of, and I didn't have room to include the offerings over at Berkshire Botanical, including the 3/2 Winter Lecture featuring Fergus Garrett from Great Dixter in the UK, or the 2/8 virtual talk offered by The Garden Conservancy "Art & Nature: New Lessons from Russell Page" for only $5 (the club is a member-call to register). I thank the steering cttee for the lovely floral arrangement seen at right (my dad passed 1/5) from Floral Affairs, who is doing a flower arranging event for us in March (see pg 2). I hope to see many of you at the annual meeting! ~ Laura

UPCOMING EVENTS

February 2 – Happy Groundhog Day!

February 8, 5:15pm – Steering Committee Meeting

February 13, 5:00-6:00pm – GGC nite at Shelburne Farm & Garden

February 17, 10 – 1 – Winter Farmers Market at the Greenfield Library

February 25, 12-4 – Annual Meeting

In February there is everything to hope for and nothing to regret ~ Patience Strong

Orchid Cactus 'Clown' (Epiphyllum hybrid)

Orchid Cactus 'Clown' makes a great hanging basket with its large, colorful, oversized blooms. The eye-catching flowers have white inner petals that are blushed with pink and raspberry and its outer petals are deep raspberry-red. In their native habitat, epiphyllums grow in trees and like partially filtered sun. In a home environment, it's best grown in porous cactus soil. Once the plants have mature leaves and are ready to flower, dry down the soil starting in November until buds can be seen on last year's growth. Another trick to flowering is to keep the plant below 60°F but above freezing (no lower than 35°F) during the dry period. This chill and dryness will stimulate flower bud formation.

If this plant interests you, club member Linda Tyler has a small number of cuttings she is happy to pass along. All you need to do is plant the now-dried leaves in soil. They will take some time to bloom since they will need to become pot-bound first, so they have some growing to do!

Linda also has some cuttings from her Night-Blooming Cereus cactus to re-home. You can reach her at:

Native Plant Trust Programs in February

Restoration Ecology 101 Webinar REGISTER HERE

Ecological restoration is a discipline with many applications. This webinar is meant for those who want to know what the term “restoration” means in an ecological context, rather than for those who have experience conducting restoration. Ideal students would be those who have an interest in making their lands more friendly to native flora and fauna and want to take their first steps, but don’t know what to do.

Date/time details Thursday, February 1, 2024, 6 PM - 7 PM

The Meaning of Gardens REGISTER HERE

For garden makers and visitors alike, the beauty or symbolism of a garden may kindle a sense of connection to a larger world, physical or imaginary. Garden creation begins in the imagination as a quest for meaning. We will explore the process of imagining a garden that holds personal meaning and look at examples of types of gardens that fulfill meaning-making for their creators or for visitors.

Date/time details Thursday, February 22, 2024, 5 - 6 PM

Location Zoom / Online

Dates: Friday, March 1-3, 2024
$599 p/p Double Occupancy* or $779 Single***

The Philadelphia Flower Show returns in 2024 inside the Convention Center again, and we couldn't be more excited to be heading there in the new year! In 2023 we are going to celebrate the bold, the daring, the eccentric and the joyful side of flowers and gardens. The theme was inspired by that "jolt or magic we feel when we see flowers, see something captivating in landscaping or when we see something truly special". The annual Flower Show is a top destination and a must experience horticultural event! See why this yearly event attracts 250,000 visitors for a showcase of excellence that dates back to 1829.

Sustainable Greenfield Community Gathering To Update Our Master Plan

Monday, February 5th • 6:30 - 8:00 pm
 John Zon Community Center

the Conway School

Greenfield - Past, Present, Future

- ✓ Listen: As we reflect on Greenfield in the past and present with a focus on economic prosperity and natural abundance (think farms, food, forests, water and more). Learn about the parts of the 2014 Master Plan that have been completed – and what is still to be done.
- ✓ Share: Tell us what your experience of Greenfield is (what you love and what you wish was different)
- ✓ Participate: Help us envision a prosperous and abundant future for Greenfield by taking part in a number of activities

Background: This gathering is the first of two in which the Conway School will seek input from residents. Your input will help us update the 2014 Sustainable Greenfield Master Plan, focusing on two chapters: Land Use and Natural, Cultural, and Historic Resources. Analysis and recommendations will be developed through the lens of climate and biodiversity resilience. More info on how else to participate will be available here in the coming weeks.

Kerry Mendez of Perennially Yours is Offering a Spring Webinar Series

All webinars are on Saturday mornings at 11:00 a.m. (ET). The Webinars are one-hour long and include pages of lecture notes, as well as a CEU form for Master Gardeners and green industry professionals. NOTE: registrants do not have to attend the scheduled live broadcasts to enjoy these colorful, info-packed lectures. Within 72 hours of each broadcast, all registrants receive an email with the video link and password. The videos can be viewed anytime and as often as you wish. The webinars are only $13.95 BUT folks can save 20% if they register for all three (total $33.48 which is only $11.16 per webinar). Below are this year's programs.

Saturday, February 24 Dazzling Plants and Design Tips for Seeing Your Way Out of the Shade! This illuminating, updated lecture will put the spotlight on gorgeous, rugged plants (shrubs & trees, evergreens, perennials, vines, annuals, and bulbs) that shine in lower light. Many of these stars also work great in containers. Topics include assessing shade; modifying shade to allow more light; key design tips for maximizing color; solutions for dry shade; and gardening under trees.

Saturday, March 9 Time-Saving, Mighty-Mite Shrubs that Outshine Perennials. My outlook on flower gardening has evolved over the decades. In addition to practicing the latest earth-friendly practices and incorporating more natives, I have also shifted my focus from perennials to shrubs that provide months of radiant color but are far less maintenance. This eye-opening lecture focuses on remarkable shrubs for front to mid-border gardens, as well as their pruning requirements. These stunning beauties also are ideal for over-wintering in containers.

Saturday, March 23 New and Lesser-Known Celebrity Plants for 2024. Grab your cameras and get ready to discover some VIPs (Very Important Plants) for the New Year. But just because they are attention-getters doesn't mean they require prima-donna care. I have trialed many of these myself and they have received my stamp of approval for no-fuss gardens.

Chicken, Leek and Rice Soup – Smitten Kitchen

4 to 6 servings

2TB olive oil or unsalted butter	2 cups water
2 large, or 3 medium leeks, halved and thinly sliced	1-pound boneless, skinless chicken thighs
1 celery rib, thinly sliced	½ c long grain white rice like Jasmine
1 carrot stick, thinly sliced (optional)	Big handful of chopped fresh herbs (parsley, chives and dill are favorites)
2 large garlic cloves, minced	Lemon zest and juice
4 cups chicken stock or broth, preferably homemade	Red pepper flakes or harissa

Heat olive oil or butter over medium-high heat in a 4-to-5-quart pot. Add leeks, celery, carrots (if using), salt, and pepper, and cook, stirring, until the leeks have softened a bit, about 4 minutes. Add garlic and cook 1 minute more. Add broth, water, and chicken plus salt (Deb uses 2 to 3 tsp of additional Kosher salt for barely-salted stock – use less if using regular table salt) and many grinds of black pepper and bring to a boil. Reduce heat to medium-low and cover, simmering for 15 minutes, until chicken is very tender and cooked through. Remove chicken with tongs and set on a cutting board. Add rice and return the heat to a low simmer, cover with lid, and cook for 15 minutes, until rice is tender. Use two forks to shred the chicken into bite-sized pieces and return to the soup to warm. Adjust seasonings to taste. Ladle soup into bowls and finish with some herbs, lemon zest, red pepper flakes (or harissa) and serve. Note: Rice continues to expand in sup so the longer you have the soup siting, the more porridge-y it will seem.

Laura's note – my family and I love this recipe. We are learning to like harissa and a dollop squeezed on top and then stirred in with the herbs and lemon is delicious!

Connecticut Flower and Garden Show

“Bursting into Spring”

Thursday, February 22 through Sunday, February 25, 2024

Seminar Schedules, Speakers, & Topics

The 42nd Connecticut Flower and Garden Show is back at the Hartford Convention Center, 100 Columbus Blvd, with its beautiful displays, many vendors, and educational seminars. Come and banish your mid-winter stress and doldrums while elevating your mood with this advance taste of spring. Hours: Thursday from 10am – 7pm; Friday and Saturday from 10am – 8pm; and Sunday from 10am – 5pm. Discounted tickets are on sale NOW on their website. General Admission: Adults are $17 plus a $1.28 processing fee. Children 5-12 will be $5 plus a .98 fee. Tickets at the door will be $20 ($20.70 with a credit card) for adults and $5 ($5.18 with a credit card) for children. Children under 5 will be free.

As soon as attendees enter the exhibition hall, they will be greeted by almost 2 dozen live gardens in full bloom designed by professional landscape designers and non-profit organizations, including naturalistic, low-maintenance, native, containers, vegetables, organic, herb, and pollinator gardens. Over 80 hours of seminars and demonstrations are scheduled, presented by more than 20 horticulturalists, landscapers, and industry professionals, and all are free with admission. Click the link above to see the full list for each day. The Federated Garden Clubs of Connecticut’s annual Standard Flower Show will amass 12,500 square feet of beautiful design, horticulture, botanical arts and photography competition with entries from members across the state – all themed “Bursting into Spring.”

Over 300 booths will showcase displays, activities, and shopping: artisans, handcrafted gifts, fresh flowers, plants, garden ornaments, metalwork sculptures, herbs, seeds, fertilizers, soils, patio furniture, and lawn/garden tools, books, and equipment, and much more. Bring a ½ cup of garden soil for free testing at the UConn Home & Garden Education Center booth.

Parking: Daily parking in the convention center garage: $9/day (or $3 first hour and $2 for each additional hour). Thursday & Friday ONLY: Free parking and shuttle at Propark South Surface Lot, 63-89 Capitol Ave (& Hudson St) in Hartford (several blocks south of the convention center). Saturday and Sunday ONLY: $5 all-day parking in the Front Street North and South Garages (across the street from the convention center). (Email the club if you are interested in forming a carpool to go to the show.)

Jana Millbocker of Enchanted Gardens is presenting in person at the CT Flower and Garden Show (see previous page) on 2/22 – Designing Sunny Perennial Gardens (12:30pm) and then Pots with Pizzaz (3:30pm). She also has two free zoom lectures scheduled at east coast libraries: 2/21 The Garden Tourist’s Charleston, and 2/27 The Garden Tourist’s Northeast. Click on the links to see about registering if you are interested.

The Book of Wilding is a hand book for how we can all help restore nature. It is ambitious, visionary, and pragmatic. The book has grown out of Isabella Tree’s mission to help rewild Britain, Europe, and the rest of the world by sharing knowledge from her pioneering project in Sussex, England. Rewilding is a spectrum. Whether we have a garden, a pond, or a window box, there is no space too small. It is learning how to contribute to a living landscape, the life-support system that will save our planet from calamity and deliver us a prosperous and sustainable future. Deeply researched and beautifully illustrated, the book explains how every one of us can play a part in rewilding our world. It is both a practical guide and a call to action. Above all, it is a manifesto of hope. Isabella Tree is an award-winning journalist and author of five books. Her first best-selling book, Wilding tells the story of the daring wildlife experiment she began in 2000: rewilding her and her husband Sir Charlie Burrell’s 3,500 acres of unprofitable farmland at Knepp Estate in West Sussex, UK. In less than twenty years their degraded land has become a functioning ecosystem again, wildlife has rocketed, and numerous endangered species have made Knepp their home. What has happened at Knepp challenges conventional ideas about nature, wildlife, and how we manage and envisage our land. It reveals the potential for the landscapes of the future. Isabella also writes for The Guardian, National Geographic Magazine, and Granta.
